

Camden County Public Protection and Compliance Officer, Dennis Gailey

Dennis was a native of Glynn County until moving to Camden County in 1996. He has been involved with emergency services for over 22 years. As a teenager he became a volunteer firefighter with Glynn County and later became a full-time firefighter in 1994. In late 1999, Dennis left Glynn County and became one of the first paid firefighters for the City of Kingsland.

Dennis came to work for the Camden County Fire Department in 2001 as a firefighter and worked his way up to Captain. In 2005, the County Board of Commissioners appointed him as the County Fire Chief which he served until 2013. In 2013, Dennis became the Public Safety Director to serve as the county's Public Protection and Compliance Officer.

As the Public Protection and Compliance Officer, Dennis plans, directs, and coordinates the County's programs associated with fire/life safety, regulations, and compliance, including Fire Prevention, Code Enforcement, and Animal Control. He also serves as Deputy Director of Emergency Management.

Dennis lives in the White Oak area with his wife, Nicole, two daughters, a son, and a new granddaughter. In his free time, Dennis enjoys the outdoors and traveling. He and his family attend St. Williams Catholic Church as visitors.
