FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

County Administrator asked to address Georgia Space Working Group in Atlanta

WOODBINE, GEORGIA – February 24, 2015 – On March 05, 2015 Camden County Administrator Steve Howard will be in Atlanta discussing the progress made concerning Spaceport Camden. Howard will also be there to participate in discussions concerning how to implement the recommendations from the Space Leadership Summit. The Georgia Space Leadership Summit, facilitated by the Sam Nunn School of International Studies at Georgia Tech in July, brought together aerospace leaders from across the state to develop a long range plan in relation to expanding Georgia’s market share of aerospace.

Howard served on the panel for Government and Legal Perspectives on Georgia Space. One of the key questions raised was ‘How can Georgia be developed as a significant provider of vertical and horizontal launch services?’ Howard says he is “thrilled to be asked to participate again and provide meaningful input. Camden County has an asset that can provide an economic advantage for Georgia and space operators. Several recommendations were based on the premise of the development of the Camden Spaceport and I look forward to attending this event and continuing discussions about this exciting opportunity.” Spaceport Camden would not only impact Camden and the Coastal region but it would also be a game-changer for the entire state of Georgia.
